Partner Pricing for VIP Subscriptions

Members of two international organisations can take advantage of discounts

Free Pint Limited announces the creation of partner organisation agreements with the Association of Independent Information Professionals (AIIP, <http://www.aiip.org/>) and the Special Libraries Association (SLA, <http://www.sla.org/>) to offer their members subscriptions to VIP at special member prices.

VIP (<http://www.vivaVIP.com/>), a monthly digital magazine of product reviews and news analysis in the premium content industry, serves an international readership of senior-level decision makers who control or influence budgets for information products and services. AIIP is an international professional association of business owners who provide information and research services. SLA is a nonprofit global organization for innovative information professionals and their strategic partners.

VIP's unique perspective on the information industry, as well as its detailed product reviews, make it a valuable addition to the professional reading list of information professionals. Both AIIP and SLA are important associations for different kinds of information professionals. These partnerships share the value of VIP, while enabling the associations to provide benefits to their members.

To learn more about VIP, including full details regarding subscriptions and the opportunity to request a sample copy of the publication, visit <http://www.vivaVIP.com>.

SLA and AIIP members can receive the discounted rate by indicating their membership affiliation on the first page of the VIP order form, downloadable at <http://www.vivavip.com/order/>

About VIP

VIP is a digital magazine published monthly and distributed to a paid-subscriber readership of senior-level decision-makers with budgetary control for premium content products and services. Each issue features in-depth, unbiased reviews of premium content products, along with analysis and commentary on news in the field. Subscriptions are available on a single-site and multi-site basis and provide invaluable insight for information professionals, analysts, publishers and other stakeholders in the business information and premium content arena. VIP is published by Free Pint Limited, a UK-based publishing company with a portfolio of web sites and publications serving the information industry.
